Why risk getting it wrong when we can do the hard work for you

According to the Financial Conduct Authority, online comparison sites "are not delivering fair and consistent outcomes for consumers". They criticised online comparison sites for:
-Failing to provide clear information
-Putting consumers at risk of buying the wrong cover
-Focusing on headline price rather than critical product details
-Potential conflict of interest

Which? pointed out in its report the following pitfalls with online comparison site which can leave you out of pocket:

- Assumptions that could invalidate your insurance
- Incorrect information can have serious consequences or even invalidate your insurance
- Failing to consider quality as well as cost – the cheapest deals are not always the best
